SULLIVAN READY TO TRAIN.

Thoroughly in Earnest About Intending to Fight Fitz.

New York, June 24.-John L. Sullivar left for White Plains today, where he will begin training at Muldoon's place for bis expected fight with Fitzsimmons. The former champion looks the picture of good health and sobriety. His skin is as soft and smooth as a youngster's, his eye as quick and bright as a schoolboy's.

John said: "I weigh just 250 pounds and with moderate, steady work I can get down to 190 in six months, or seven at the outside. Julian has promised me the next fight with Fitzsimmons. I get the preference over all others. I think I can lick him-I am confident that I am the better man. Of course, he does not need to fight within a year from the date of his last mill, and in that time I think I can get my self bp in the finest shape. I am stronge physically than ever before

"If I am defeated I shall never again bid for the support of the public. I have not touched a drop of intoxicants since last October. My legs and aims were never better. My heart is as steady as a pie ton and I feel physically superior to any other time in my life. I am but thirty-eight years of age-a year younger than Mace was when he defeated Allen, and I have eight or pine months to take off fifty pounds of flesh. I am out for the stuff. for I need it, and will do anything on the level to get it honestly."

GAMES TODAY.

New York at Washington. Baltimore at Boston. Philadelphia at Brooklyn. St. Louis at Pittsburg. Cleveland at Chicago. Louisville at Cincinnati.

"Zeke" Wrigley was the star player at National Park yesterday afternoon, when the Senators defeated the aggregation man aged by ex-Minor Leaguer Stallings for th third time, by a score of 12 to 2. The ef ficacy of Wrigley's work on the team will be like St. Jacob's oil on a sore limb. The young man took Brown's place in center and he quickly acquired fame in the field by taking Lajoie's fly in the fourth with the judgment of an aged gardener and caught Delehanty at third on a throw far more accurate than the arrow from Cupid's bow. The subjects of the venerable Victoria more heartily than did the royal root ers shout at the consummation of the double play. At another stage of the game he traveled far out into right cen ter, extending himself in Ben Brush fash ion, and pulled down Clements' terrifi drive.

His excellent work did not end in th field. At the bat he was like a veteran In the sixth he found Mr. Taylor and ripped the ball into right center for three bases, sending two men across the plate. In the eighth he demonstrated his bunting abilities and simply galloped to first, th hall keeping in fair ground, much to th disgust of the twirling Quaker.

Mercer, only a few days out of a sick ed, was as keen as a well-honed razor. He was as regular as an old bachelor in his habits, and he kept the seven hits of the visitors well scattered. Not a man walked to first, and McGuire gave him ennant-like support.

Tucker, reliable and energetic, put out sixteen men, and made a double play without assistance. His voice was less in colume than usual, caused, no doubt, by the desire of some younger members of the team wishing to use their lung power. Ton was willing, satisfied that the ginger he has shown has had its effect O'Brien has rounded to in great shape. and playing him on form he would enaily be an odds on favorite in any game of ball. The Senators hit Taylor easily, and just at the proper time, Reilly leading with two doubles and a triple. The latter had on his usual mitten, and failed to handle Cross' bounder, which could easily have been held with a fingered glove. He was knocked out for a brief spell, and had to tie down, but little applause was heard when he revived.

Four double plays were executed by the home team in a style that should act as a fashion plate for the Quakers to The work of the plays nattern after. was rapid and neither one was close. DeMontreville made three errors. Hap pily, however, neither one was a feature in run scoring. At other times his work vas good. In the third inning he made a highly sensational steal of third while Taylor had the ball, but whatever greatness he won by the act was lost afree awhile by being caught off the base On this play Taylor was awake, and

Abbey, prompted by stern necessity bowed new life and managed to cover a little more ground than Roaring Bill Hassamer was in the habit of traversing, and got a fly after a hard run over toward center The visitors were not in the game at any time, and they seemed to act the part of the average Philadelphian, being slow and listless. Taylor hit three men etting two runs.

The umpire vesterday was Mr. Lynch, and he was positive and fair. At one time, when his decision was questioned and the Senators wanted to have a talk with him, he waved them back, and he meant it, too. This was necessary only once, for after that he had no trouble. He called the Hotel Lawrence down Jack Boyle with military dignity, and that, too, had its effect. Such um-piring is healthful, and is greatly ad-bunt, and was sent home on a long two bunt, and was sent home on a long two-bagger by Bowd. Another run was scored in the sixth by the same player on his single right into center, a dropped fly by the Senators' left fielder, belehanty's out to Abbey and Dowd's out at second.

In the fourth Delehanty hit the big sign in left field and earned a hat and necktie The first three Senators were quickly retired in the first, but there v as some hammering in the second. McGu're went to second on Crosa' overthrow to first. Tucker hit safely, on which Mac went to third, and when he tried to score on Reilly's infield hit there was a veritable rolling match between the runner and Taylor in trying to run Mac down be-tween the bases, but the latter tore himself away from the grasp of the big pitcher and scored. Abbey and O'Brien followed with singles, and Mercer sacrificed, and before the side was out four runs were scored:

Two more were scored in the third on singles of DeMontreville and Tucker, Reilly's triple and Abbey's double. In the sixth two more were sent across the plate on Reilly being hit, Gillen's error and Wrigley's three-bager. After DeMontreville went out in the eventh McGuire singled, Tucker was hit and Reilly made a double, which scored McGuire's run and put Tucker on third. Abbey was hit, and on O'Brien's out at first Tucker scored the second run.

They kept up the hitting in the e'ghth and scored two runs on singles by Wrigley, the lett fielder, and McGuire and Reilly's double. The score: Washington. Washington. AB R. H. PO.A.E. Wrigley, c.f. 5 1 2 3 1 0 8 selbach, l. f. 5 1 1 0 0 1 DeMontreville, ss. 5 1 2 2 5 5

GIANTS' HOLLOW VICTORY. They Play All Around the Champion Baltimoreans.

Baltimore, June 23.-Today's game prov ed a hollow victory for the New Yorks. They won as they pleased. The exhibition of ball playing given by the Baltimores would have disgraced a minor league club The visitors took advantage of every mis play, their work being in marked contrast to that of the locals. The Orioles threw away at least seven runs by stupid base ronning and miserable all-around play.

With Cornell Lagging Behind. MAGNIFICENT CONTEST

The Preliminary Race to the Great Warsity Struggle Comes Out in Favor of Coach Cook-Cornell's Bad Form a Surprise to Her Ec-

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23 .- With steam whistles blowing, cannon rearing, and thousands cheering in the wildest enthusiasm, the Yale freshman crew sho across the finish line on the Hudson this evening three lengths ahead of Harvard, who was about a length in front of Corthusiastic Admirers.

The race, which was a magnificent one at all stages, was the forerunner of the more important 'varsity confest, which will be rowed here on Friday, and was in a measare a good test of the different method employed by Conches Eob Cook, R. C. Leh-man and Charles Courtney. Tonight Cook has a decided advantage in the opinion of those who saw the race, but the -palm cannot be conceded wholly to him until the big eights have rowed over the fourmile course. A more superb body of oars men never sat in a freshman tout before Their stroke was of such power and regu larity that when they finally got into their swing the other crews seemed to be drag ging some heavy weights. Although the crimson followers had not expected much from their youngsters, the Cambridge crew surprised everybody. The coaching of Lehmann was evident in the early stages of the race, for the eight certainly rowed in beautiful form for balf the distance, and died game toward the finish. But it was lack of physical strength, and not of skill, that caused their boat to drop behind the New Haven oars men as the struggle progressed.

The showing of the Ithacans was a sore disappointment to the great crowd of Cornell men, who had backed their chances with almost unlimited money. Her men were not nearly so exhausted at the finish as were the Harvard rowers, who were completely played out.

The race was rowed up stream, but owing to wugh water there was a long delay before the crews got started. There were fortunately no fluxes, the victory was honestly won, and there was th best of feeling between victors and vanquished after the line had been crossed Harvard led for the first quarter with 35 stroke. Cornell was a close second. with about the same stroke, while Yale was pulling 36. The Yale men were row-ing with marked deliberation, and their toat was moving steadily through the water. Cornell was splashing badly, aithough the crew had by far the best Yale, they were leaten out, and the heat-mile saw Harvard a quarter of a length ahead of Yale, while Cornell was very lose. It was a beautiful sight, and a the young giants kept working away for the glory to be accorded to the winners the spectators roared in hoarse approval and waved flags until their arms were

And now Yale's beef and beans began to tell. Inch by inch the prow of the frail at was went like a razor into the dancing waves until at the three-quarter mile mark the New Haven men had wrested the leadership and set their followers into a Itenay of delight. They were pulling a long, clean, powerful stroke, with plenty of body swing.

"Yale will win" was the general cry as the boats darted under the big bridge, which marked the one-mile point. Yale led here by a good half length, and this was being broadened at every heave of the oars. Yale had two lengths to spare when the one and three-quarter miles was passed. The victory was now assured to the blue and there was a wild scene on the observation train and affoat "Look at Yale, now," screamed the crowd, as, 100 yards from the finish, the blue oarsmen began to increase the speed of their boat. On and on their shell fairly flew over the waves, and then glided into a waterway between the vessels anchored at the finish. When they stopped rowing they simply sat bolt upright as at Bob Cook. They had plenty of speed

The official time was: Yale, 9 minutes. 19 1-2 seconds; Harvard, 9 minutes, 26 1-2 seconds; Cornell, 9 minutes, 29 1-2 seconds. All three crews beat the best previous freshman record of 9:41, made by Columbia, made on the Thames, in June, 1891 The crews were greatly aided by a strong seized with one of his attacks. He was sent to the District fail and has been secome that of late two men have been kept in his cell continuously to control him upon the recurrence of his attacks. He was brought from the jail this morning to be taken before Judge Bradley for the purpose of baving a lawyer assigned to his case, and while waiting in the cell was taken with five or six fits, one after

His pitcous shricks resounded through the corddors and he struggled so that it took three strong men to hold him down. A physician who happened to be in court was summoned and prescribed for the patient. He expressed himself very strongly upon the case.

"That man," he said, "should have been sent to the insane asylum immediately upon his arrival in this city. The confine ment in the jail is preving upon his mind, causing his ailment to grow stead-ily upon him. Unless he receives proper attention very soon, his case is likely to become very serious."
